More than one in four British mothers who return to work feel discriminated against, according to a survey from a legal firm. Researchers asked 1,975 women about their work experiences before and after giving birth. Most of the women had never complained as they suspected it would be a waste of time and damage their careers. Mothers complained about not being promoted and about junior employees moving faster up the career ladder. They also complained that their ideas were considered less useful than those of colleagues without children. Many managers and employers disagree with the survey. A British industry association said: "We don't recognise the picture painted here. Our experience is that businesses are better than ever at managing maternity leave and reintegrating mothers on their return." A politician said the government is making sure that businesses use all women's talents throughout the organisation, from boardroom to the shop floor". Lawyer Kiran Daurka was shocked that some women employees had not talked about discrimination. She said they avoided the issues and buried their heads in the sand.

72. It is clear in the passage Karen Daurka ----.

- A) avoids the discrimination issue by burying her head in sand
- B) expected women to complain about discrimination
- C) thinks that women employees should be more understanding towards their managers
- D) wants women not to mention unfair treatment in the workplace
- E) would like employers to take the survey into account more seriously

73. The survey in the passage states that ----.

- A) more than one fourth of all the women in Britain feel that they don't get enough respect from their colleagues
- B) most of the women didn't complain about discrimination after giving birth because they were satisfied with their condition
- C) about 30 percent of British mothers experience unfair treatment upon return to their workplace
- D) women with children received much more respect than those who are not married
- E) many managers and employers think that mothers in the work place are discriminated against

74. It is clearly stated in the passage that ----.

- A) many managers and employers think that businesses are getting worse and worse
- B) the majority of the politicians believe that businesses should benefit from women's talents more
- C) businesses are not as good as they used to be at reintegrating mothers on their return
- D) low rank workers don't have any chance of promotion in the work place
- E) most of the women in the survey didn't complain because they thought it would risk their promotion prospects

75-77. arası soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

The Berlin Wall existed between 1961 and 1990. It completely cut off land access to West Berlin from surrounding East Germany. During that time, the western powers of the USA, Germany and France controlled life in West Berlin, while communist East Germany controlled the rest. The Eastern Bloc erected the wall to protect its population from fascist elements. For them, those elements aimed to prevent people from building a socialist state in East Germany. The Wall also served to prevent the massive emigration to the West. The barrier included guard towers along large concrete walls. The East German border police shot or arrested anyone who attempted to cross to the west. It is more than 30 years since the wall came down. For many, it represented the beginning of the end of communism in Europe and of a world divided by the Cold War. However, former Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev warned that the world was on the brink of a new Cold War and accused the West of not fulfilling the promises that it made after 1989.

75. It is clear in the passage that for the Eastern Bloc, the fascist elements ----.

- A) were necessary to protect its people from the East's influence
- B) resulted in a huge amount of emigration to the West
- C) helped East Germany to control life in its surrounding
- D) were aimed at avoiding a socialist state in East Germany
- E) were a way of preventing people from emigrating to other countries

76. According to the passage, Mikhail Gorbachev ----.

- A) criticizes West for making unrealistic promises
- B) the West and the UN should make new promises
- C) was ready to prevent a Cold War
- D) was accusing the West and the UN for ending the Cold War
- E) a new Cold War was fast approaching

77. It is explicitly stated in the passage that ----.

- A) many West German border police were protecting the wall from an attack
- B) over a quarter of a century has passed since the collapse of the Berlin Wall
- C) Eastern Bloc's authoritarian systems liberalized when the wall came down
- D) the collapse of the wall led to a political erosion in Poland and Hungary
- E) between 1961 and 1990, Germans were allowed to move freely between West and East Germany

78-80. arası soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Obesity is a common problem which occurs over time when you consume more calories than you use, and its latest victim is a very old crocodile. That crocodile was one of the world's oldest crocodiles and lived in a temple pond to the age of 115. The chubby reptile died after overly-keen worshippers fed it with a huge number of chickens, goats and other animals. They did so because they believed that sacrifice brings good luck. Crocodiles can normally survive on just one meal a week in the wild. Thus, the prehistoric killer rapidly put on weight and finally the staff found it floating upside down in the temple pond where it lived. Crocodile keeper Mohammed Sarwar says: "We were aware of the problem but were not sure what to do about it. The legend is that if you feed the hunger of crocodiles, then the god will help you fulfil your desires. Usually it was just a chicken but more recently people have been offering even more, including goats. They believe that if you offer big sacrifices, your wishes will certainly come true."

78. According to the passage, Mohammed Sarwar ----.

- A) couldn't convince his co-workers about the problem
- B) couldn't find a way to prevent worshippers from feeding the crocodile
- C) always quarrelled with the worshippers to dissuade them from feeding the crocodile
- D) helped the worshippers fulfil their desires by saying prayers for them
- E) found the crocodile upside down in the pond of the temple where he lived

79. We can understand from the passage that ----.

- A) chickens were more sacred than goats for the worshippers
- B) the crocodile in the temple pond would have lived shorter in the wild
- C) in the wild, crocodiles feed at long intervals
- D) crocodiles float upside down when they are not hungry
- E) no other crocodile ever lived as long as the one in the temple pond

80. It is clear from the passage that the worshippers gave the crocodile a large amount of food because ----.

- A) they believed that crocodiles loved sacrifices
- B) chickens, goats and other animals bring them good luck
- C) the crocodile needed lots of food to survive
- D) they thought that chubby crocodiles looked better
- E) they hoped for good luck
